Nothing from me, either.

It's fine -- a lesson learned, if nothing else. I just want to be sure that people know we're helping, including those outside the party. But internal recognition is good too. Given the cost, I'm not going to lose any sleep over it. We can add on a logo or whatever in the next round if/when that happens.

I believe that second moves us into discussion.

I agree it would be ideal to have LPKY on there. I believe the buttons are already being made. When I asked for the mockup and quote there was a miscommunication and the order was already placed. I'll take the blame for that one. I could fundraise for it if we have issue with no mention of LPKY being on there. I would say that if it had our party on it the legislators would probably balk at wearing them to committee meetings though. I'm hoping the button could be handed to each member during credentialing and mentioned during the Excom update at convention which will hopefully help get us credit for "doing something"

Thanks!
Andrew

I will second.

Is LPKY funding this entirely, or are others also funding the same button? I ask only in that if this is LPKY-only we should probably put an LPKY logo on it. It's it is a joint effort, it might be good if there was a place to go for the KY-specific effort that would list us as a sponsor. Just wanting to be sure LPKY gets marketing out of our support; that people know we're supporting it and putting our funds behind our support.

I'm not going to hold it up, but I'm all for making sure we get credit for our work, so people can't do the "LPKY doesn't do anything" line when, in fact, we are doing things.

All,

I'd like to motion for $300 to be spent on defend the guard buttons. A member of the party has agreed to procure the buttons at cost for us. The cost of 100 buttons was ~$279. I'd like these to be available at convention for all attendees that would like one and the remainder to be given to the sponsors of the HB81. The logistics of getting them to Frankfort would need to be worked out but I think giving the buttons to them with a note that we are available for anything the legislators pushing this bill need would help our cause. The picture is attached.

Thanks!
Andrew
